with That, an Evening Session Continues the Meaty Discussion.

Washington, April 27.—The features in the proceedings of the Senate, yesterday, were the notice of Mr. Ingalis that he would, on Tuesday next reply to Mr. Voorhees' attack upon him of vesterday and the debate of the Land Forfeiture bill.

Bills were reported and placed on the Staten Island bridge across Arthur Kill; bill granting right of way to the Kansas City and resisted every attack on the tariff, because any change in import duties would interfere with its pets, who, with Oliver Twist simplicity, were asking for more protection. That party would take the tax off whisky and tobacco because, by so doing, it expected to prevent a revision of the tariff as was now demanded by the great mass of the country.

The Democratic party had placed its shoulders against the car of tariff reform and would propel it to the end of the journey. He denied that the boasted system of protection had indeed protected American labor. There had indeed protected American labor. There had indeed protected American labor. There had been strikes innumerable, were the notice of Mr. Ingalis that he would, on Tuesday next reply to Mr.

The Democratic party had placed its shoulders against the car of tariff reform and would propel it to the end of the journey. Bills were reported and placed on the calendar as follows: House bill to extend the time for the construction of the Staten Island bridge across Arthur Kill; bill the time for the construction of the Staten Island bridge across Arthur Kill; bill granting right of way to the Kansas City and Pacific Railway Company through the Indian Territory; bill providing for the enlargement of the wharf at Fort Monroe, Virginia.

At the conclusion of the morning busi-ess, Mr. Ingalls took the floor and said: President, shortly after the Senator Indiana (Mr. Voorhees) began his a yesterday. I was called from the speech yesterday. I was called from the Senate to examine and sign a large number of circular bills for transmission to the Iresident. I had supposed from the notice which he gave that his speech was to be devoted to the subject of tariff and mance. And was somewhat surprised this morning to be advised by an item in the newspapers that I had been the object of the Senator's animadversions. A casual newspapers that I had been the object of the Senator's animadversions. A casual examination of his speech appears to me to disclose certain omissions on his part with regard to the relations of the Democratic party to the subject of pensions; to the war for the preservation of the Union; to the reconstruction of the Southern States; to the Solid South; to the recent election in Louisiana and to the issues and results of the approaching campaign; which appear to me to justify the issues and results of the approaching campaign; which appear to me to justify some observations of mine in reply. I therefore, desire to give notice that on Tuesday heat, at 2 o'clock p. m., if the Senate will indulge me I will move to proceed with the consideration of the resolution to refer the President's message for the purpose of enabling me to submit some remarks thereon."

He declared every process under the original grant to have been known to the canal company as irregular, and that the company only hoped that time would/cure its title and that contintime wouldcure its title and that contin-tiance in possession would give to it rights which it could not claim under the law. Its efforts to obtain by indirection what it could not obtain by direction he characterized as insidious.

Mr. Dolph made a speech on the general land policy of the Government and to refute the assertions of Senator Kenna on the floor of the Senate and Speaker Carlisle in the newspapers, to effect that the Republican party were responsible for that policy. The administration of the public domain by the Republican The administration of the public domain by the Republican party, he said, had been wise and judicious, in the interest of the aettlers and of the public, and free from most of the abuses found under almost eyery previous administration. While from the beginning of the government until the Democratic party was hurled from power in 1861 the policy of that party had been a policy of that party had been to obtain a revenue from the wiblic to obtain a revenue from the public lands; It had offered them to speculators, first at public sale, as soon as surveyed, and if not sold then at private entry in any quantities, and it had steadfastly resisted quantities, and it had steadfastly resisted every effort to change the law and practice of the Government, and to allow settlers the opportunity to purchase their lands before being offered to speculators. The Democratic party had also steadfastly resisted the passage of the bomestead law, whereas the very first act that gave preference to settlers was passed under Whig administration in 1841. At the close of Mr. Dolphs speech the bill was laid aside. Several bills were taken form the calendar and passed.

Washington, April 27.—Four tariff speeches occupied most of the time of the House, yesterday. Senate bill was passed for the relief of the Omaha tribe of Indians in Nebraska, and to extend the time of payment to purchasers of land of said In-dians. A resolution was adopted calling on the Secretary of the Treasury for information as to the number of persons en-gaged in manufacturing and agricultural pursuits who are subject to foreign compe-

The House then went into committee of the whole on the Tariff bill Mr. Buchanan, of New Jersey, criticised the composition of the committee and the secresy with which it had formulated the secresy with which it had formulated the pending measure, and arraigned the committee for its refusal to grant flearings and to consider petitions. Referring to the President's message, he said the President did not advocate the repeal of the internal system of taxation nor manifest a deep concern that this country should feed its laborers rather than a foreign country; but he advised that import duties should be reduced and in some instances abolished altogether. He asserted that the bill, instead of remoing the inequalities of the tariff, increased them. He protested against the reduction of the duty on earthenware, and read a number of petitions from workingmen in his district against the principles embodied in the bill. It struck a blow at almost every industry in his district, and in its details was vicious, inequitable and illogic-al, and declared that in the contest between free trade and protection he would be found on the side of that policy which for many years had brought prosperity and happiness to his native land.

Mr. Hemphill, of South Carolina, contended that Congress had the constitutional right to tax the people for public purposes only and every time it went beyond that limitation it was a flagrant violation of that privilege. A tariff for protection was illogical and unjust. Under it the entire people were subjected to monopoles. The only difference between home monopoly people were subjected to monopolies. The only difference between home monopoly and foreign monopoly (adm tting that there could exist such a thing as foreign monopoly) was that the people had to pay a heavy additional percentage for the privilege of having their mosters on this side of the water. The protection accorded by a high tariff was a protection against the right of the American people to buy when and the American people to buy when and where they pleased. That protection was demanded by the manufacturers, not against any wrong but against the right of their own countrymen—demanded in order that one citizen's privilege should be increased by having those of another curtailed.

Mr. Perkins inquired whether, if the gen-tleman believed that the American citizen should be permitted to buy where he pleased, he did not also believe that he should be allowed to hire labor where he pleased. Mr. Hemphill replied in the affirmative and expressed his belief in freedom in all things, and called attention to the fact that the high protectionists had never attempted to protect the labor of the country from the importation of the so-called paper labor of Europe. Human called pauper labor of Europe. Human ingenuity, he said could not conceive a sys-tem more unjust, more unreasonable, more unfair and more unrighteous than the protective system.

Mr. Osborne, of Pennsylvania, opposed the bill, which he characterized as a blow at the dignity of labor, an attack on a system of taxation which had brought comfort and even luxury to thousands of homes in this country. The object of a protective duty, Mr. Osborne said, was not to raise the grice of mode but to secure a market for oscophy this year.

innot. Give to the American workman a market for his products and he would take care of the wages. Protection at any point below prohibition must always reduce the price of products first by foreign competition and later by home competition.

Mr. Hudd, of Wisconsin, said that the Republican party was committed to the abolition of the internal revenue taxation, and resisted every attack on the tariff, because any change in import duties would

Mr. Sayer. of Fexas, addressed the House at its evening session in general commendation of the Mills Tariff bill. The bill, he said, was a step in the right direction and, if passed, would be so much gained in the effort to relieve the people from as oppressive and unequal a burden as had ever been imposed by a representative government in modern times. The House then at 9:10, adjourned.

Briviness, Kan., April 27.—The murder of Dr. W. E. Ashley and Eugene Grove, of this place, in the Indian Territory has been confirmed. They hired a team and buggy to visit the nation on a hunting and prospecting tour. When a few miles below Englewood in the Indian Territory, they were met by vigilantes, who called Grove from camp, and without warning or ceremony hanged him to rails crossed on sapilings. Ashley drew his Winchester and opened five. They murdered him at once, fifteen balls piercing his body. They had two women companions, and what has become of the remains of the murdered men or the unfortunate females, cannot be conjectured. Sheriff Echolz has returned from the scene, and states he cannot find a trace of the people nor the team. This is a most of the people nor the team. This is a most actroclous deed, enacted in a country where crime has full sway. These vigilantes are in most cases worse than those whom they should make a net gain of three memb there. Churchill's speech on Irish county council bill was one of the most important of the session, and certainly the ablest he has ever delivered on any subject. His fore hadowing of grave disaster to the tory party at the polls, if a general election per-haps close at hand, arrived, produced a haps close at hand, arrived, produced a tremendous sensation, and seemed most ominous. In fact, the speech was undoubtedly the hardest blow this government has yet received, and it will have far reaching results in the country. These results, toward which events are shaping must be in our favor. Let us wait alertly, but still in patience, and see what they are."

A TENNESSEE HEROINE.

A Young Lady Fights a Mad Dog and Saves a School of Children.

Nashville, Tenn., April 27.—Miss Mollie Green is the heroine in a thrilling scene in Perry county, Tenn. Miss Mollie is an attractive young lady of 18, who teaches school on Cypress creek. The father, Robert Green, lives across the Tennessee river in Hickman county. The little log school house was quiet and the children busy with their lessons, when a sharpy dog foaming at their lessons, when a shagry dog foaming at the mouth, snapping and biting, dashed in at the door and made toward one of the children. The brave little woman thought only of the children in her care, and sprang only of the children in her care, and sprang between them and the intruder, though the animal was a mad dog; she kicked at it, her skirts protecting her, and by the aid of a heavy rule kept it at bay until the chil-dren had fled. The infuriated animal re-dren had fled. The infuriated animal repeatedly sprang at her throat, but she was agile and resolutely held her ground.

When all the children were gone, she desperately fought off the dog until she reached the door, which she pulled to after her, and fell fainting outside. The children in the meantime ran to the nearest homes, an eighth of a mile distant, and gave the alarm. Two men scon even and child the slarm. Two men soon came and killed the Dayton Police Board resolves to rigidly enforce Sunday closing.

Mr. Saddier, whose real name is Hume, was adopted in 1847 by a family named Sadler, living at Hamilton, Ontario. The Sadlers shortly afterwards moved to New York, and the mother and son did not meet again until 1870. Mrs. Hume married Francis Riley in 1852, and had come to suppose her child dead, or if not, that she would never hear of him, thinking that the Sadlers would not reveal to him his paternity.

interests. Five Men Injured in a Boston Fire. Boston, April 26.—The Atlantic Machine Works, corner of Boarder and Maverick streets were burned yesterday, causing an estimated loss of $150,000. The fire started estimated loss of $150,000. The fire started in the partern shop, and the supposition is that it caught from the wires of an arc-electric light. Assistance was asked from the city proper and from Cheslea, but before it arrived the flames had made great headway. The rear portion of the building was quickly destroyed, and a scene of great excitement was caused when the walls fell in. ment was caused when the wails left in, carrying with it the machinery and completely destroying the engine room. It required the greatest energy to prevent the fire spreading to adjoing buildings. Four workmen were injured, one of them, Robert Cassidy, will die. The loss is probably covered by insurance.

SOME DOCTORS

honestly admit that they can't cure Rheumatism and Neuralgia. Others say they can but—don't. Ath-lo-pho-ros says nothing but—cures. That's the secret of its success. Years of trial have proved it to be a quick, safe, sure cure.

In my own family Athiophoros was used as a last resort, the user having suffered from rheumatism for years and having been treated for the disease by different physicians in this State and Massachusetts without even temporary relief. Upon my recommendation scores of people have used this remedy with the same results claimed for it. C. H. Wilson. Dubuque, Iows, Jan. 3, 1898.

No Universal Remedy

has yet been discovered ; but, as at least four-fifths of human diseases have their source in Impure Blood, a medicine which restores that fluid from a deprayed to a healthy condition comes as near being a universal cure as any that can be produced. Ayer's Sarsaparilla affects the blood in each stage of its formation, and is, therefore, adapted to a greater variety of complaints than any other known medicine

Boils and Carbuncles. which defy ordinary treatment, yield to Ayer's Sarsaparilla after a comparatively brief trial.

Mr. C. K. Murray, of Charlottesville, Va., writes that for years he was af-flicted with boils which caused him much suffering. These were succeeded by carbuncies, of which he had several at one time. He then began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and after taking three bottles, the carbuncles disappeared, and for six years he has not had even a pimple.

That insidious disease, Scrofula, is the fruitful cause of innumerable complaints, Consumption being only one of many equally fatal. Eruptions, ulcers, sore eyes, glandular swellings, weak and wasted muscles, a capricious appetite, and the like, are pretty sure indications of a scrofulous taint in the system. Many otherwise beautiful faces are disfigured by pimples, eruptions, and unsightly blotches, which arise from impure blood, showing the need of Ayer's Sarssparilla to remedy the evil. All sufferers from blood disorders should give Ayer's Sarsaparilla a fair trial, — avoiding all powders, ointments, and washes, and especially cheap and worthless compounds, which not only fail to effect a cure, but more frequently aggravate and confirm the diseases they are fraudulently advertised to remedy.
